A Funeral Bond is a specialized investment which enables an individual to accumulate funds to meet future funeral expenses.

An investment in a Funeral Bond is similar to a life insurance policy, whereby the benefit becomes payable on death. The benefits must be used to meet an individual's funeral expenses.

A Funeral Bond is an investment towards the cost of a funeral and by itself does not guarantee against rising funeral prices.

There are a few organizations that offer Funeral Bonds.

It needs to be your decision which one to invest with.

We can give you a very close estimate to what your funeral would cost today, and suggest you may decide to pay more into the funeral Bond.

When the Funeral bond is needed the funeral expenses will come out of it and the balance will be returned to the estate. If there is not enough money in the Funeral bond at the time needed, family will need to pay the balance.

As at 9 June 2026 the Funeral Bond allowable limit is $16,250.

Your funeral bond won't count as an assessable asset if you have nominated a funeral director.
